ABOUT ME

Journalist and Information Designer

I always thought that information and design can be combine to create a more impactful and creative information.

I'm very interested in discovering new programs and different ways to communicate. My studies in Communication Design allow me to extend my knowledge through storytelling, interaction, UI/UX, digital culture and creative coding, amog others.

Nowadays I'm very interested in the use of data visualization to tell stories, other digital narratives and their combination with design and communication.
